

NEW MEDIA AT THE UVA: LECTURER PROFILES

A New Media Practices project by:
 Rose Rowson
 Becky Cachia
 Susan Clandillon
 Cristel Kolopaking
 Inte Gloerich

Dr. Carolin Gerlitz
 @cgrlitz
www.uva.nl/over-de-uva/organisatie/medewerkers/content/g/e/c/c.gerlit/z/c.gerlitz.html

Carolin is an Assistant Professor of New Media at the University of Amsterdam, and is also a member of the Digital Methods Initiative. Her area of interest focuses on the interplay between new media and economic sociology. She also works as a post-doctoral researcher at the Issue Mapping and as a visiting lecturer at Goldsmiths, University of London. She previously completed her PhD.

Dr. Michael Dieter
 @mdieter
<http://home.medewerker.uva.nl/~m.j.dieter/>

Michael is a lecturer in New Media at the University of Amsterdam. His research interests focus on relations of art, media, ecology and politics. He is a PhD scholar on contemporary technoscience and artistic practices, and his publications have appeared in Fibreculture, M/C and the Australian Humanities Review. He is an editorial member of Query: Journal of Critical Internet Studies and of Digital Culture & Education.

Prof. dr. Richard Rogers
 @richardrogers
www.uva.nl/over-de-uva/organisatie/medewerkers/content/r/o/r.a.rogers/r.a.rogers.html

Richard is a University Professor and Chair of New Media & Digital Culture at the University of Amsterdam. He is the founder of Govcom.org, a foundation which creates and hosts political tools on the Web, and he is also the founder of the Digital Methods Initiative, which focuses on methods for Internet-related research. He recently published his latest book, Digital Methods (MIT Press, 2013).

Dr. Cornelius Puschmann
 @coffee001
<http://ynada.com/>

Cornelius is a lecturer in New Media at the University of Amsterdam and an associate researcher at the Alexander von Humboldt Institute for Internet and Society in Berlin. His areas of interest focus on computer-mediated communication, digital research methods, scholarly communication and societal impacts of data and algorithms.

Dr. Niels van Doorn
<http://home.medewerker.uva.nl/~n.a.j.m.vandoorn/>

Niels is an Assistant Professor of New Media at the University of Amsterdam. He completed a PhD in Communication Science at the UvA, and carried out a two-year postdoctoral research project at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. His research interests include digital ethnography, qualitative research methods, political & cultural theory, social media platforms, embodiment, digital materiality, gender and sexuality, and immaterial labour.

Marc Tuters
<http://www.picnicnetwork.org/marc-tuters>

Marc is a PhD candidate and lecturer in New Media at the University of Amsterdam. He has two graduate degrees from Concordia and the University of Southern California (USA), and has worked as an artist and researcher at the Annenberg Centre, the Banff Centre, the National University of Singapore, and Waseda University. Marc is credited with developing the concept of "locative media" and also has a background in the media arts.

Dr. Esther Weltevre
 @esthr
www.uva.nl/over-de-uva/organisatie/medewerkers/content/weltevred/e/j.t.weltevred.html

Esther is a lecturer of New Media & Digital Culture at the University of Amsterdam. She is also a member of Govcom.org. Her research interests include digital methods, device and software studies, controversy mapping and the dynamics of online data.

Dr. Bernhard Rieder
 @RiederB
<http://rieder.polysys.net/>

Bernhard is an Associate Professor of New Media at the University of Amsterdam and is also a collaborator on the Digital Methods Initiative. His interests focus on the analysis and development of digital research methods, and on the history, theory, and politics of software. He is currently researching the historical and conceptual foundations of information processing techniques and connect access, social networks, and connect information online.

Dr. Yuri Engelhardt
 @YuriEngelhardt
www.yuriweb.com

Yuri is an Assistant Professor of New Media at the University of Amsterdam. He has an M.A. in Medicine and a PhD in Computer Science. His PhD has also been published as a book, The Language of Graphics (Amsterdam, 2002). Yuri's research interests focus on pictorial languages.

Erik Borra
 @ekborra
<http://erikborra.net/>

Erik is a PhD candidate and lecturer in New Media at the University of Amsterdam. His main area of interest focuses on Digital Methods for Internet Research. Erik is also the lead developer of the Digital Methods Initiative and is currently involved in the European research project 'Electronic Maps to Assist Public Intelligence' (EMAPS). He previously completed an M.Sc. in Artificial Intelligence at the University of Amsterdam.

Dr. Jan Simons
 @jaasi
<http://www.uva.nl/over-de-uva/organisatie/medewerkers/content/s/i/j.a.a.simons/j.a.a.simons.html>

Jan is an Associate Professor in New Media at the University of Amsterdam. His areas of research focus on the processes of convergence and divergence brought about by new media. He has published works on cinema, photography, new media theory, and game theory, and his latest book is Playing the Waves: Lars von Trier's game cinema (Amsterdam University Press, 2007).

*The information gathered here was collected from the lecturers' profiles on www.uva.nl and from the lecturers' own websites as listed above.